Meet the Artists

Conductor Doreen Rao is recognized internationally as one of North America's leading authorities on music performance as music education. Since 1988, Dr. Rao has been Director of Choral Programmes at the University of Toronto where she teaches Advanced Choral Techniques in Music Education and conducts the University Symphony Chorus and Chamber Singers. She enjoys her position as Director Emerita of the Glen Ellyn Children's Chorus, an outstanding music performance program recognized as a model for music education and acclaimed for its award-winning recordings with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and Chorus.

Rao has appeared extensively as guest conductor and choral clinician throughout the world with recent conducting appearances in the UK, Germany, Belgium, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Finland, and Namibia. She was the first woman to conduct the National Symphony Orchestra in Johannesburg, South Africa. In a recent review of her Lincoln Centre appearance with the University of Toronto Chamber Singers and Orchestra, writer Arthur Kaptainis remarked the Doreen Rao is the personification of the conductor-educator.

The University of Toronto Chamber Singers concluded its 1991-92 premiere season with triumphant performance of Mozart's C Major Coronation Mass at Lincoln Center's Alice Tully Hall. The Toronto Star praised the choir's Mozart concert as "an exhilarating sequence of choral and instrumental music" noting that "the response to their well-disciplined and full-hearted performance was overwhelming". This season, the Chamber Singers premiered John Burge's The Fluteplayer with Robert Aitken. Their performance will be broadcast on CJRT, 91.1 FM on Sunday, April 4 at 7 pm. Comprised of gifted undergraduate music students, the chamber choir is dedicated to the performance of culturally diverse and distinctive repertoire. The Chamber Singers first recording, Chanter Avec Joie is now available at the Faculty of Music Concert Office.

The University Symphony Chorus was established in 1988 to offer alumni and community musicians an opportunity to participate in the rich musical life of the University of Toronto. Under its founding director, Dr. Doreen Rao, the USC performs a rich variety of choral-orchestral repertoire ranging in style from traditional European works to contemporary Canadian compositions. The 1993-94 season will celebrate the MacMillan legacy, beginning with a revival of England, October 29 in MacMillan Theatre.

Oksana Rodak, conductor, is completing her graduate studies in Music Education. She has served as Assistant Conductor of the University Symphony Chorus since 1991. Recently Oksana was chosen to attend the American Choral Directors Association Conducting Competition in San Antonio, Texas where she won the semi-finals.

The University Women's Chorus began in 1986 under the direction of Michael Coghlan. Ann Cooper Gay, director, is completing her fifth season as conductor of the UWC. The repertoire of the chorus spans a broad spectrum of treble voice music, from the works of Hildegard von Bingen to commissioned works by students and professors.

In 1990 and again in 1992 the University Women's Chorus won Second Prize in the Equal Voice Category of the national CBC Choral Competition, bringing pride to the Faculty of Music Choral Programme. The UWC performs regularly with outstanding student soloists and internationally known faculty members. In October 1992 the Women's Chorus performed on the Gala Concert for the OMEA convention in Toronto. In February 1993 they completed their first concert tour to Cornell University in Ithaca, New York.

Programme Notes

Gloria

Ruth Watson Henderson

Ruth Watson Henderson enjoys a multi-faceted career as composer, teacher, pianist and church organist. Toronto born, Ms. Henderson studied at the Royal Conservatory and in New York at the Mannes College of Music. She was active for many years as a concert pianist, with frequent appearances on the CBC and as a soloist with many Canadian orchestras. Her compositions have won numerous awards and are published and performed internationally.

Gloria is written for treble voices, brass, timpani and percussion. It was commissioned by, and dedicated to Doreen Rao. The predominantly three-part vocal texture is reminiscent of Stravinsky's angularity and objectivity, the colour contrasts, varied dynamics and syncopated rhythms remind us of Poulenc and the use of brass with treble voices suggests the influence of Vivaldi, a composer who spent much of his career composing for women. In a new voice, vocal practices rooted in a cherished musical past are reconstituted by Ruth Watson Henderson to strike a powerful chord for the women of today.

Songs of the Great Land

David Bowser

David Bowser is a composition student at the Faculty of Music where he is continuing his studies following graduation last year. A graduate of the Etobicoke School of the Arts, David attended the Conservatoire de Tours in France to study flute and music theory. He has studied composition with Chan Ka Nin, Lothar Klein, Derek Holman and Harry Freedman and was selected by Doreen Rao as the Student-Composer-in-Residence for the Chamber Singers, 1992-93.

Songs of the Great Land is a setting of selected Native American poems compiled and translated by John Robert Colombo. David Bowser writes: "I have focused on the universality of these beautiful words, as they celebrate with passion and clarity a human relationship with Earth..." Written for chorus, soprano, baritone, and chamber orchestra, the works' six movements alternate fully scored choral movements with more sparsely textured arias for baritone and soprano. In the final movement, two poems are set simultaneously, one for the soloists and the other for double chorus.

I. The Sun - chorus

Our father, the Sun!
It is now time you were rising.
I want to dance with you. (Blackfoot)

II. Little Song - baritone

And I think over again
My small adventures
When with a shore wind I drifted out
In my kayak
And thought I was in danger

My fears,
Those small ones
That I thought so big,
For all the vital things
I had to get and to reach.

And yet, there is only
One great thing,
The only thing:
To live to see in huts and on journeys
The great day that dawns,
And the little light that fills the world.
(Mackenzie Eskimo)

VI. The Sky - soprano, baritone, chorus

There is no place to be saved
Except in the sky.
(Blackfoot)

III. The Great Sea - chorus

The great sea
Has set me adrift,
It moves me as the weed in a great river,
Earth and the great weather
Move me,
Have carried me away
And move my inward parts with joy.
(Iglulik)

IV. My Love has Departed - soprano

A loon
I thought it was
But it was
My love's
Splashing oar. (Ojibwa)

V. The Mountains - chorus

My heart is breaking with grief,
When I look back and see
The mountains I have left behind.
(Tsimshian)

Around the sky
I walk;
A bird
I accompany. (Ojibwa)

Gloria

Dmytro Bortniansky

Dmytro Bortniansky was born in Ukraine. He studied with Baldassare Galuppi at St. Petersburg, then followed his master to Venice where he wrote three operas. He returned to Russia in 1779 where he lived and worked until his death in 1825. Bortniansky wrote a large amount of church music. The collected edition of his works was edited by Tchaikovsky and contains more than 100 vocal compositions, hymns, various choruses, sacred concertos, a Mass, three extant operas and some instrumental music.

Gloria is from Bortniansky's Sacred Concerto No. 6. The work was brought to my attention by Faculty of Music graduate student Oksana Rodak who studied at the Tchaikovsky Conservatory in Ukraine for one year following her graduation from the University of Toronto. The text, "Slavavo vishnikh Boku" is translated "Glory to God in the Highest."

Gloria

Imant Raminsh

Imant Raminsh was born in 1943 in Latvia and came to Canada in 1948. He completed a Bachelor of Music degree in Music Education at the University of Toronto in 1966 and continued his advanced studies in composition, violin and conducting at the Mozarteum in Salzburg. A recent dissertation on the composer points out that Imant Raminsh also studied biology at the University of Victoria, knowledge that serves him well as he leads tours of the Okanagan forest. Imant Raminsh has an extensive professional background as conductor, violinist, teacher and composer. The composer lives with his wife Becky and daughter Lisa in Vernon, British Columbia. Tonight's performance celebrates the birthday of Alma Raminsh, Imant's mother and first inspiration.

Gloria was commissioned by the West Coast Amateur Musicians Society in loving memory of their choral director Gaby Billette. The premiere performance was conducted by Gerald van Wyck at the Shawnigan Lake Music Camp in the summer of 1992. The work is set in five movements and scored for SATB soloist, mixed choir, and piano. The orchestration calls for double winds, brass, timpani, harp and strings. The piece begins with a shimmering introduction with the upper voices, gradually thickened by the addition of lower voices which leads to a joyful rhythmic "Gloria in excelsis Deo" figure. This gives way to an expansive "et in terra pax" section and the two ideas alternate to the end of the movement. The second movement "Laudamus te" is again a joyful piece with the initial idea introduced fugally and a middle dance-like section featuring soloists. The third movement "Domine Deus" is broad, majestic and hymn-like. The "Qui tollis" begins in a subdued manner with an alto solo and progresses from a mood of apprehension to supreme confidence. The last movement begins chordally with the text "Quoniam tu solus sanctus" and moves into a rousing fugue on the words "Cum sancto Spiritu".
